The Goal of Economic Growth

What
can you depend
on?

a historian is a man who has searched and found the reasons for the events of the past. a humanitarian is a man who tries to insure a better future for mankind. a philosopher is one who instills in others the way of life that is best to follow, and a friend is an associate, a supporter and a sympathizer. When you combine all these people into one man and place him in the position of an educator the result is an astute and able man of astounding value. yes, dr. edward hartmann you are a total human and for this reason alone, we the students of the class of 1968 dedicate our beacon to you.

president's message

As Graduates of the Class of 1968, you personify the ideals, objectives and aspirations of Suffolk University. You have been exposed to a dedicated and knowledgeable faculty, and we hope that you have been enriched and fulfilled by your educational experience.

These are difficult times, but difficult times need not be dark. You are uniquely equipped to become involved in the complex issues that beset society and contribute imaginative, purposeful and constructive solutions. Do not become disengaged and shy away, but rather boldly rush to meet the challenge. An enormous opportunity for leadership and service to your fellowman awaits you because contemporary society cannot beguile itself with yesterday's answers to today's problems.

The process of being educated never ends and is always beginning. Education signifies a drawing forth of the basic faculties of the human soul, intellect and will; the continuing development of the whole man and woman, of moral fibre and character arising from the trained intellect. Your intellectual bank account must be constantly replenished by fresh deposits. At the same time, if you claim bona fide membership in the society of truly educated men and women, you must always remember that the old-fashioned and simple word "character" is a basic and indispensable hallmark of "education" in the full and real meaning of that word.

Each graduate should have a commitment not to mediocrity, but to perfection which demonstrates that his contribution, large or small, must be his maximum, must represent the best fruits of his educated will and intellect, the optimum outpouring of his own spirit to the service of his country and his fellowman.

I congratulate you upon your achievements, and sincerely hope that each of you will enjoy many years of good health, good fortune, great happiness and continued successful accomplishment.
